London, 26th—Boulanger denies that he intends to publish a manifesto explaining his intentions. He has received innumerable bouquets of flowers sent him by admirers in France, and invitations to balls.

Paris, 26th—Figaro declares that the Empress of Austria was mad for fully 14 years before the death of Prince Rudolph, with a frantic desire for change of residence and hallucinations. For years she did not sleep a single night in the Palace at Vienna, and believed herself haunted by the spirit of Maria Theresa. After the death of Louis the Second of Bavaria her madness took the special shape that the King appeared to her, and that the water flowing from his clothes endangered her life: she used then to shriek for help and fall in a dead faint. Her stay in Corfu did her momentary good. While there she thought she was called to enter a convent. Then she got mad about Heine, and went to Hamburg to see the poet's portrait. When she heard of Prince Rudolph's death she thought herself his murderer. When the Court went to Pesth she got worse. She would not allow doctors near her, dressed in nun's attire, and refused to take food. The servants were obliged to tie her hands. The acute period is past, but the softening of the brain is believed to be incurable.

Brussels, 26—Henri Rochefort has left the country, being pressed by Belgian Government to do so.

London, 26—Mr. Walter Phelps leaves to-night for Berlin.

Lord Alcester and Lord Randolph Churchill visited Boulanger to-day, the latter remaining half an hour.

At a Unionist conference in Birmingham yesterday resolutions were passed to the effect that the land question gave rise to differences, and urging Government to bring in a Bill to enable the tenants to purchase their holdings.

A WAVE OF OPINION.

A distinguished ex-member of the Argentine Cabinet not long ago made before Congress the rather crude statement that he never looked for public opinion in the columns of the press. Coming from the lips of a veteran journalist, such Bismarckian ideas of the Fourth Estate raised a storm of indignation, but the sarcastic statement of the Minister is coming true, and in no case could it have been better exemplified than in the present journalistic opposition to Minister Varela's energetic and forcible policy, which smacks little of the "suaviter in modo" of the general tone of ministerial language. There can be no doubt, in spite of the stirring opposition of the press, that Minister Varela has removed a terrible incubus off the shoulders of the country, and who can gainsay that such an unexpected boon and lasting benefit meet with the applause of the great majority of inhabitants? And it is to prove that solemn fact that a movement is on foot among the commercial body of this city to meet "en masse" and confirm by their presence at the portals of the government-house Minister Varela's policy and encourage him in the pursuance of that policy, which benefits the country at large though it wounds the interests of a few.

In this popular movement politics count for nothing, but the country's material interests for everything. Stripped of all political affinities, but strong in defence of the interests of the market, the commercial procession to the Government House will carry with it the support of a good cause, and, flattering though the ovation be to the 'amour propre' of the Minister he is the last man to forget that the merchants of Buenos Ayres have risen to defend the Paper Dollar and put their feet on the gold ring. This will remove the popular delusion that the gold gambling was the main occupation of the trade and commerce of this city; that brokers were the instruments but merchants the guiding hand in margins, contango and backwardation; that legitimate business was a mere handle to speculation, and finally that the chief sufferers by the Varela decrees were those very merchants whom the Minister sought thereby to defend. The procession, the reforo, may be regarded not only as a popular recognition of the Minister's policy, but also as a solemn vindication of the maligned commercial body.

Recognition and vindication are at the bottom of the whole movement, which has now assumed the immense proportions of a wave of opinion. It is highly satisfactory that such public expression can be given to a general feeling in such a plausible manner, since it is very seldom indeed that we see any wave of opinion in this city unlike anything but the newspaper sheets, and in this instance it is interesting to take note that the spokesman of the people is not the press. This may go to show that either the merchants know not what they are applauding or that the newspapers in general, with a few exceptions, have failed to sound public opinion. Or can it be after all, that the sarcasm of the ex-Minister and the Bismarckian anathema on journalists are deserved? One thing is certain, and that is that among the Argentine newspapers very few indeed have reflected the opinion of the commercial community in regard to the gold policy of the Minister of Finance—and it would be folly to argue that there is no such wave of opinion, because the majority of the press opine otherwise.

The performance of Meyerbeer's massive opera "La Africana" on Tuesday was certainly not up to the average; the chorus, orchestra and principals were often at loggerheads, a result due partly to insufficient rehearsal and partly owing to the incoherent and extra-violent beat of the conductor. Signorini and La Colonnese were up to their usual excellent standard, and Blanchart, on whose behalf a claim for indulgence was made on the ground of indisposition, made a far more favorable impression than on the occasion of his debut. We must lodge a protest against the unconscionable length of the enteracts; on Thursday, the curtain fell the 4th time at five minutes to one and the rewas still another act to come. Our physical energies being then exhausted, we were compelled to remit the lovely last act till another opportunity.

Polo-players and lovers of the sport will be glad to hear that a match has been arranged to take place at Clifton Park, Temperley. Train will leave Plaza Constitucion at 1,45.

THE VARELA DECREES IN LONDON.

OPINIONS OF LOMBARD STREET.

THE "OBSERVER" ON ARGENTINE FINANCES.

OPINIONS OF THE STATIST.

FUNERAL ORATIONS IN PARLIAMENT.

From our own Correspondent

London, March 30th.

The telegram announcing the closure of the Buenes Aires Bolsa was first published in the Observer 24th inst. Subsequently we heard of the reopening of that institution, and from the comparative silence of the London papers on the subject it is obvious no one knows what to make of it. The Statist of to-day is the only leading financial paper that makes any lengthened comments on the action of the Buenos Aires Government, and those comments are very severe. It roundly accuses the Argentine Minister of Finance of having no knowledge of finance. I do not think that your chronically bilious contemporary levels its remark against Mr. Rufino Varela in particular, but against Argentine ministers of finance in general. It speaks of the rumour that the Finance Minister intends to supplement his decree forbidding time bargains in gold by imposing a duty on the export of gold. The Statist reminds him that a duty on the export of gold would discourage the imports of gold, because no one would send gold to Buenos Aires, taking the ordinary risks of an exchange operation in addition to having to pay duty when bringing it back. The Statist also thinks that an export duty on gold would not prevent its being "smuggled across the frontier". Here, perhaps, your contemporary is a little adrift in his political-financial geography. He says with more reason—"Did the Finance Minister possess a little more knowledge of finance he would recognize that the law of supply and demand could not be controlled by mere government regulation; he would see, in short, that there is only one way of preventing the premium on gold rising, and that is by reducing the amount of the inconvertible legal tender paper, and gradually preparing for a resumption of specie payments. In its turn that can be done only when the Argentine Republic ceases to owe the rest of the world very much more than the rest of the world owes to it; in short, there must be a cessation of the wild speculation now going on and prices must be brought back to a natural level. The alarm of the Finance Minister proves that the Government is fully alive to the dangers of the situation. * * * The whole public is gradually opening its eyes also to what is coming. Private communications from all sorts of persons received in London leave no doubt that the crisis so long foreseen is now rapidly approaching. * * * * Prices of all kinds have risen inordinately, but more particularly the rise has been excessive in lands and houses. At any moment an accident then may precipitate a crash."

I can only hope that when you read this you will be in a position to smile at the Statist's antiquated notions. I must say that its pessimistic views have never yet influenced the market here one cent; but on the other hand, the telegram in the Observer did—it sent down hard dollars nearly ten per cent. And why? I don't know. One would think that the action taken by Mr. Rufino Varela was in the idea of improving the dollar. People here evidently were afraid that whatever a Government does in the way of interference in the financial operations of the public must have a bad effect. It would be better to send us no telegrams till the crash comes.

There is nothing new here in the financial situation. In London all is calm and apparently is prosperous, and in Paris matters are working themselves out, no one as yet knows how, not even the directors of the Comptoir or the Regents of the Bank of France.

The political effects of recent events may be worse than the financial. The eyes of the populace are directed towards the Wilsonism of the Republic, and it is not a small matter that there should be cries for the prosecution of a Rothschild. In many regards the mob in this instance is right. Hence the strength of Boulanger, and alas! the weakness of the Senate, where bourgeois influence is centred and where they are clamouring for the prosecution of General Boulanger.

The American Senate has not confirmed the appointment of Mr. Murat Halstead to be Minister at Berlin. Mr. Halstead as the eldest editor of a Cincinnati paper it appears some time ago offended certain among the Republican Senators, who joined with the Democrats in defeating his nomination. The appointment of Mr. Lincoln to London is universally approved.

Yesterday was a gala day at the House of Commons, Mr. Gladstone, Mr. W. H. Smith, Mr. Justin McCartley, Lord Hartington and lastly Mr. Chamberlain, each in his particular way—English way, House of Commonsy way—choked with emotion, pronounced a funeral oration on John Bright. I suppose I have no feeling. Of that lard—and—dripping feeling which is pumped up to order at births, deaths and marriages—a feeling that blubbers at death and smiles at injustice. God knows I have none, and the whole scene at the House of Commons was to me hideous. Even Gladstone laboured. The only speeches in memory of the Great Tribune that had no hollow sound were those of Mr. W. H. Smith and Mr. Justin McCarthy. As for Chamberlain—well, the utter vulgarity of his speech can be thus epitomised—"We—that is I, "Joe" of the Birmingham caucus—"sent him here"—to parliament—"free of expense". As the Herald says, "After that," the epitaph "She painted in water colours, and of such is the Kingdom of Heaven" fades into insignificance."

ARGENTINE TRADE RETURNS.

Antibes, March 14th.

The returns for 1887 compared with those for 1878 shew us some striking contrasts. In the first place, as regards the gross trade, imports and exports, of the different ports we find as follows:—

	1878.	1887.
Buenos Ayres	60,840,000	146,440,000
Rosario	7,666,000	29,760,000
Santa Fe	80,000	3,970,000
San Nicolas	1,810,000	3,330,000
Other ports	10,830,000	18,270,000
Total	81,280,000	201,770,000

The increase of trade in the nine years was 150 per cent for the Republic, but B. Ayres increased only 140 per cent, while Rosario shewed an advance of almost 300 per cent, Santa Fé 4,900 per cent, and San Nicolas 85 per cent. The phenomenal growth of Santa Fé was doubtless due to the agricultural colonies, aided in some measure by railway materials, which swelled the imports. Some of the land ports, however, have not progressed like the seaports, viz.:

	1878.	1887.
Mendoza	650,000	510,000
San Juan	1,760,000	580,000
Salta	340,000	290,000
Jujuy	210,000	400,000
Total	2,960,000	1,780,000

Here we have a decline of 40 per cent, the overland trade with Chile having fallen 50 per cent; that with Bolivia increased $140,000. The new railways have apparently served to turn the current of trade of the Andine and remote provinces towarda Buenos Ayres or Rosario. It is possible that Customs-tariffs have further tended to check our overland trade with Chile. Turning to some of the minor river ports we find as follows:—

	1878.	1887.
Concordia	1,210,000	2,870,000
Gualeguaychú	960,000	1,220,000
Gualeguay	900,000	710,000
Concepcion	1,510,000	580,000
River Uruguay	4,580,000	5,380,000
Campana	300,000	1,810,000
Corrientes	460,000	260,000
Parana	340,000	690,000
San Pedro	190,000	810,000
Zarate	380,920	920,000
River Parana	1,670,000	4,490,000

LONDON LETTER

POLITICAL, FINANCIAL AND SOCIAL.

(From our own Correspondent.)

March 19th.

On the envelope of my last letter I scribbled the Liberal majority at Kennington. I think I put 600. The official number is 630, and you will see written more than enough in the newspapers in regard to the Liberal victory. Under ordinary circumstances I should not have noticed a local election. I quite understand that the politics of Kennington must be supremely uninteresting to your readers in Buenos Ayres. But they will know how much in the way of a forecast of political events in this country depended upon that election. It was not so much a trial of strength between Liberal and Conservative, nor was it a question of Pigott and Home Rule. Such things could have been ganged with more or less accuracy by the wire-pullers on either side. The Conservatives expected to lose a few votes on account of the Pigott exposure, the bad odour in which their former representative, Mr. Gent-Davis, had left the seat, and from the choice of candidates. It was found that even the Conservatives did not fully appreciate the fact that Mr. Beresford Hope was nephew to Lord Salisbury and cousin to Mr. Arthur Balfour but had no other claim to the notice of the people of Kennington, who would have preferred the tile-maker Doulton, or some other local employer of labour. And without the Conservatives polled more than their usual strength, and yet their opponents robbed them of the seat by a great majority. The all-important reason is this: it has for a long time past been found by canvassers on both sides that the working man, in the metropolis at least, took no interest in parliamentary elections. He could never, except by indirect bribes which affected a comparatively small number of votes, be induced to go to the polling booths. He looked upon Liberal and Tory as equally indifferent to his interests and equally unwilling to forward those social reforms which would be of any immediate benefit to him. The London County Council elections seem to have changed all that. "Coal dues", "ground rents", and other questions that came to the front in those elections were nearer to the hearts of the artisans. The parliamentary election at Kennington was fought by an organization on the Liberal side that had been formed in the County Council struggle; and still the Liberal wire pullers, as I know well, were ignorant of the extent to which that organization had been prepared until, scarcely believing their own eyes, they saw on the tape, "Beaufoy. Liberal majority, 630." For his success Mr. Beaufoy has honestly admitted so much of the credit as was due to the Scotch Socialist, Burns, who, when fine people and primrose dames were vainly sending their carriages and gaudy flunkeys to scour the slums of Lambeth and the New Cut, was quietly waiting with a train of vans outside the railway stations and iron works to sweep in hundreds of his newly converted supporters to poll for Beaufoy. Many of Doulton's men would have voted in the same way and the Gladstonian majority would have been still larger, had the men not been purposely kept at work over time. I say "Gladstonian;" but Mr. Gladstone has little to do with it; and that is the moral I wish to point. What happened at Kennington may occur in all the popular constituencies in the metropolis. Hence, whatever you see to the contrary, and you will see much affected indifference, you may rely upon it that the Kennington election has not only made Mr. Balfour less insolent and Mr. Goschen less cock-sure as to the reception of his financial thimble-rigging, but has struck terror into the hearts of the "classes." The Economist, as you will have seen, has ruthlessly exposed the "National Defences" trick in its financial aspect. That procedure on the part of a savagely unionist paper, and a financial paper, is most important. In London, as in Berlin, Paris, Vienna and New York, the classes mean the "haute finance." The landed interest has only a social existence. The most bitter opponents of Home Rule and therefore now of radicalism in England, are not only the large financial newspapers, but the semi-American Financial News, its partner, the Evening Post, and the London edition of the N. Y. Herald. And to these must be added the Echo, in which the violent Scoto-American democrat Mr. Carnegie is a large shareholder. Other rabid papers of the kind are owned by Germans. We are deeply grateful to our American and German friends for the interest they take in the 'integrity of the British empire.' Max O'Rell, seemed to think that all Americans were home-rulers; and the reason he gave was that the Americans thought that if Ireland attained home-rule, all the Irishmen in America would go home. That was very smart, but it does not seem to be true of the American moneyed aristocracy. These gentlemen find the Hotel Metropole, grouse moors and Scotch deer-forests a pleasant change and places of rest between both continents. They like to have the privilege of landing at Queenstown without having their passports 'visés' by an Irish consul in New York.

The confidentials of American and British financial magnates are in a sad state in Paris, and as a natural consequence there was a fearful fall in copper in London last night when it became known that the agents of the Société des Metaux were unable to meet their London engagements. Copper was quoted at £35 to £38, a price said to be unprecedented in history! In short the Societé des Metaux has stopped, and from the latest accounts we receive from Paris it seems certain that the Comptoir d'Escompte, even with a further advance bringing up the total advances to 140,000,000 frs, cannot be propped up. The present idea is to wind it up and form another company under the title of Comptoir Nacionale. The banks that advanced to the old company will cover themselves by receiving paid up shares in the new, but we hear of no guarantee or privilege to the old shareholders. However, everything is as yet at sixes and sevens, and all kinds of wild rumours prevailed yesterday; and really had it not been for the Financial News and New York Herald—the London American press—we should have known little this morning about the fall in copper. Our ordinary "city articles" were either purposely silent dreading a crash in Paris sooner or later, or what is more likely, the editors, in the old hum-drum way, had gone home to their wives before yesterday's business was fairly concluded. Our American friends will stir up these gentlemen.

Only the New York Herald ventured to tell us this morning that Mr. Gent-Davis, the ex-member for Kennington, a small, well-dressed ginger-moustached gentleman of whom the House is glad to be rid, he put on so much "side" and was so deuced impertinent—has run away to Paris with a girl—bar-maid, actress or something. The Herald says the young lady is a well-known actress, Miss Toole. She is a little pale, fair-haired girl, who used to follow Gent-Davis into the House of Commons, much to his disgust. But she would do it, and waited for him till the House was up, when they slipped away together.

A young actress at the Gaiety is missing. She is a Miss Love, who played in "Faust up to date." She is only fourteen, but very pretty and well-grown—5 feet 4—and looks much older. Detectives are on the hunt for her, but she has not turned up so far. Small differences with her mother is said to be the cause of her disappearance. May be Gent-Davis is the responsible party.

This is rather long, and in fact I intended to send two letters, but it is late, and my doctor says I am never on any account to be out of my bed after two in the morning. I cannot refrain from calling your attention to a case in the courts in this morning's papers, about "supper clubs." It is a wrinkle for your mashers. A "supper club" seems to be a place "visited by actresses and the aristocracy, after the theatres are over." According to the evidence the place is filled from 9 o'clock in the evening until breakfast time next morning. There is music, dancing, "lots of fun," "all the beauties of the town" and other attractions, many "aristocrats" on the committee. The entrance fee is only 2 guineas and the admission 10s. Now, if to this scandal I add the fact that the Prince and Princess of Wales and their three children dined with the Guards at Knightsbridge barracks last Sunday evening, and wound up with a little music and all kinds of nice games, you will have an idea where we are going to. It is a clear case of fighting the Rev. Mr. Capel Cure and the evangelical bishops in the idea of continentalising the British sabbath. The prince spends much of his time on the continent and finds his countrymen behind the age. He is supported in some respects by the Queen, by many of the clergy, by the higher society in general and by the Lyric and other clubs in which royalty unbends, and smoking-concerts on Sunday nights are becoming the rule. A little matter that may cost His Royal Highness a crown. London is not Britain.

DISASTER IN THE CHANNEL

A MAIL STEAMER RUN DOWN

The Comtesse de Flandre left Ostend at a quarter past ten, the usual time, on Friday morning, with twenty-three passengers and seven mail bags on board. At noon the Princess Henriette started from Dover for Ostend. There was no wind, and the sea was calm. Owing to the dense fog prevailing both steamers had their regulation lights burning, and their steam whistles were going every minute. At about twenty minutes or half-past one, when between the Ruylingen and green lights off Dunkirk, they approached each other, their line of route being such that they would always pass in sight of one another. In their neighbourhood, though invisible, owing to the fog, was a fishing smack, said to be No. 267, of Gravelines, which frequently sounded her foghorn, and it was in the endeavour to steer clear of this boat that the two steamers came into collision.

The shock was frightful. The Princesse Henriette struck the Comtesse obliquely on the starboard side immediately behind the paddlebox, and cut right into her middle. With the inrush of water the boilers exploded, and completed the catastrophe. The fore part of the vessel, with the heavy engines, went to the bottom at once, but the after part floated. The captain was never seen again, but a boy and a sailor who were on the bridge with him either jumped or were blown by the explosion on to the aft-deck, and to this fact they owe their lives. The chief officer, who was at breakfast in his cabin, and all the men in the lower decks perished. Mr. Henry Algernon Osborn, and the two Belgian gentlemen, M. Florent Goossens, of Antwerp, and M. Creutzen, of Liege, were swept away and drowned.

Every effort was made by the crew under the command of the remaining officers to save the lives of the passengers. The Comtesse carried four small boats, and one of these was lowered, and, together with those launched from the Princesse Henriette, succeeded in rescuing the unfortunate people who had leaped or had been forced into the water. The passengers on board the Henriette were thrown into the utmost alarm by the collision, but, on perceiving that their vessel was safe, devoted themselves to assisting the survivors of the accident. Prince Jerome Bonaparte and his aide de camp, an old Naval officer, were the last to leave the wreck. M. Vandkarckhove, first officer of the Princesse Henriette, succeeded in climbing on to the deserted stern of the Comtesse, and rescued several items of the Prince's luggage. After having waited till all hope of finding any other survivors was gone the Princesse took the wreck in tow until she was relieved by the Ostend tug boat.

The Comtesse de Flandre sank almost immediately after coming into collision with the Princess Henriette. Prince Napoleon, who is an excellent swimmer, supported himself a long time on the water. Baron Brunet followed his example. When the wreckage rose to the surface, the Prince seized a plank, and, stretching out his hand, dragged Baron Brunet also to it. They both clung to the plank till the people on board the Princess Henriette perceived them. A boat was lowered, and they were saved.

According to the telegrams, the Prince and Baron Brunet are none the worse for their long immersion in the cold sea. Theodule, the Prince's "valet de chambre," who was drowned, was Prince Napoleon's most faithful servant. He had been in the Prince's service ever since 1849. He accompanied his master to the Crimea, Italy, and during his expedition in the Polar Seas. He also shared the Prince's captivity in the "Conciergerie."

Captain Waeflaer, the commander of the Princess Henriette, states that he attributes the cause of the disaster to the presence of a fishing smack—which is stated to have been an English boat—in the immediate vicinity of the disaster.

IS CATTLE BREEDING A FAILURE?

Yes it is! Common sense at the first flush says it ought not to be. Statistics prove the contrary.

Can no more money be made out of pure nature in its zoological branch? Figures and results say "No." Why not? The answer to this simple question, although apparently a complicated one, is easy enough. Let history speak and, as it is perfectly true that history always repeats itself, let us follow that of the older country, which can be fairly represented by Texas, and we will find a repetition of the facts in the younger countries of cattle fame: New Zealand and our Republic.

We have before us an extensive report made by an English expert on a cattle Ranche in Tom Green County, Texas U. S. A., which report, besides technical details, contains the history of the owners; and as this is a thoroughly representative case of breeding we take it as a basis for these lines:

The owners of the rauche are two brothers who were in the employ of a Kansas City butcher, who, in order to give them a start, lent them a few thousand dollars, for which they bought the largest number of cattle they could and proceeded with a gun, a knife and a lasso as their luggage, to drive their worldly possessions straight before them on the prairie. They soon settled down in Tom Green County, as there they found the best shelter through the frequency of small hillocks, and the undulating formation of the ground supplied the ditches and riverlets with such quantities of water that it often was still fairly abundant when other places suffered from drought. Besides, the quality of the food is as good there as in any other spot in that enormous continent, the blue pampas grass being the most nutritious and retaining its moisture the longest.

Business went well, no rent to pay, no tax collector to come round, and no chance of spending a cent, even had greenbacks been as abundant as the young calves soon became. The branding iron always ready at hand, for even up to this date it is perfectly lawful to brand as one's own any stray animal with a virgin skin, and in those times stray calves were plentiful.

Money began to come in gradually, from the sale of surplus stock, and all the skins from the dead beasts were easily disposed of to caravans going West or were sent East whenever a mule waggon passed.

The small debt to their Kansas city benefactor was soon paid off, and still the herd increased at an enormous rate, there having been some remarkable breeding years. All went as well as it could be till the surveyors paid a visit to the neighbourhood, to lay down the iron bars on which the famous steam anail was to wend its way and bring the overflow of civilisation into the midst of those who were far happier without it.

The railway obtained land-grants for a certain number of miles on either side of the Road with the option of taking other blocks where the adjoining land was occupied.

This was the first blow to breeders, as it put a stop to free grazing and rent had to be paid. This rent was comparatively heavy, as it included part payment for purchase, as most of the lands have been sold by the railroads on the hire system (if we may be allowed that expression). A remarkable clause in all these sale contracts is, that the railroad is obliged to accept payment of any debt in its own bonds at par, which bonds can, or often could, be bought at a considerable discount.

Cattle rauche owners soon got into debt, and neighbors came, so that money had to be found for fences. Fence riders had to be kept and paid, and if not paid for in cash, had to receive a share in the business, or very often at branding time their brand was introduced so as to define their interests. Water supplies being diverted by neighbors, Californian wind mills had to be put up for irrigation purposes. Several small towns sprang up, and as the stores were opened the appetites grew for more luxurious supplies and more comfort. Banks started, which granted facilities for the purchase of more land, or for the taking over of a brand of cattle whose owner thought it either more prudent to retire, or could not find land.

The average pasture required in that part is ten acres per head, so that any increase of cattle necessitated more land and further debts, and although on paper rauche owners got very wealthy as the nominal value of land increased, in reality they were, financially speaking, on the high-road to ruin.

It was then that English capitalists, and mostly Scotchmen, stepped in, thinking with plenty of money to become owners of the land; a good business could be done, as breeding ought really to go on as fast as ever, and meat is an article that must remain marketable. Very well argued, but again they forgot the railway and civilization.

Where formerly owners drove their cattle 500 miles and got a good price for them, buyers now get by rail those animals whose owners pay the least rent and can afford to sell cheaper. Commercial travellers of all the large Chicago beef-packing houses travel around, generally just before interest on mortgages becomes due, and buy for hard cash from the cheapest seller. Very often money is obtained in that way for immediate need on promise of delivery of next season's cattle at lower prices still.

English companies have, furthermore, been greatly upset by the law passed forbidding aliens to hold real property in the United States.

However, the results are very painful. Honest, well-managed undertakings are not paying any interest, and can hardly make both ends meet, and the natural deduction is that where a man can work himself at breeding and drive his own cattle without having heavy rent to pay, he can make a fortune in a very, very new country; but as soon as expenses increase and he has to pay other people for working for him, the business of breeding requires too large a capital to give a fair return for it at present, especially as the costs of management are heavy on a business which can only pay without expenditure being incurred.

This so far as Texas is concerned. New Zealand has followed the example, and Argentine is on the way to complete the trio.

We must not confound cattle breeding with sheep farming. Large fortunes are still being made in New Zealand with sheep farming. But never was a large fortune made by cattle breeding, just the same as in mining, where nobody has ever made a fortune out of a gold mine, but all big miners' fortunes come from silver mines.

THE PANIC IN LONDON

(From the Weekly Bulletin)

London, March 16th.

If you were to consult a dictionary to discover what a panic was you would learn that it was "a sudden fright". A panic on the Stock Exchange, however, is something more, and, to some people, means sudden death. In a financial or Stock market panic there is not a man in a thousand who can keep his head cool. Some may be educated up to the virtue of resignation, but few can play the part of Daniel, and stand alone. In other words, brokers, jobbers, speculators, and dabblers form themselves into a flock of sheep and follow the leader.

We once knew a man who probably had the coolest head in the world. He did a large business in stocks for a number of wealthy clients, and had himself amassed a considerable sum of money. His great boast was that at the beginning of a panic the scrip in his safe belonged to his clients, but that at the end of the panic the scrip belonged to him. In other words, when his clients were suffering from panic fever, and selling everything they owned at panic prices, he, not suffering from the same ailment, took advantage of their temporary insanity, and purchased their wares at low prices. When things returned to their natural state his clients went through the usual performance of tearing their hair and biting their nails, whereas he looked on and assumed a self-satisfied air which was all the more irritating to those who had fled on the first shot being fired. But this man, we admit, was a marvel: his head could only be likened to a frozen cucumber; fifty thousand panics would not have frightened him, and at the game of fiddling whilst the fire was raging he would have given Nero a long start. Still, as we grow older, and from time to time make the acquaintance of fresh panics, we become more convinced than ever that the man who keeps cool and listens not to either facts, rumours, or indeed anything, during a panic, is the man who comes off best, and has the laugh all to himself.

The panic which commenced at the end of last week and continued until the beginning of this, though not very awful, was quite sufficient to upset the equilibrium of thousands of people. It spread throughout the country, and in some provincial towns we hear they "got it very badly". Even some of the reputed cool-headed members of the London Stock Exchange were shaking their knees, and wondering how long it would last. Without thought or consideration, they described it to be as bad as anything they had ever known, and loudly prophesied that things might be worse before they were better. The rats all thought the ship was sinking, so they left it as quickly as possible. Nobody was buying anything in particular, and nobody was selling anything in particular; yet prices kept falling and falling till one could almost observe the tape winking as it rolled out the prices. Yet all these little events of the day unmoved us: we sat perfectly quiet, doing nothing, save to listen to the office-boy whistling "Wait till the clouds roll by". And now the event is over; the stakes have been won by those who rode a waiting race, and the pacesforcers are out of the hunt. The biggest bear a week ago is the biggest bull today, and every one has come to the conclusion that there was "nothing in it, after all."

There are so many different phases of a Stock Exchange panic that it is impossible to deal with them all at once; but one we must not forget to-day, and that is the wholesale offer of shares in Companies that no one ever heard of before.

And now that the panic is over, every one is hiding his bottle of nerve-tonic in a secret cupboard, and feels quite ashamed of himself for having taken it. He does not, however, throw it away, for he has a strong presentiment that some day what is left may be useful.

THE NORTHERN RAILWAY. INSPECTOR KOENIG'S REPORT — INSPECTOR FAY WRITES ABOUT THE CENTRAL ARGENTINE.

Faithful to promise we open Mr. Koenig's report to-day with a view of shewing that, so far from being unfavorable it proves that the Northern Railway is in excellent working-condition. Our readers may remember that some time ago Inspector Koranda issued a report taking the Northern Line to task and making serious charges against the management. Mr. Brown protested against the report and the Board of Public Works then named Mr. Koenig to draw up another report, which shews that Mr. Koranda somewhat exaggerated the state of things. Turning to Mr. Koenig's report we make the following extracts: "From the appended lists..... it will be seen that, of the 15 locomotives belonging to the company, there are:

Two undergoing general repairs.
Two out of service.
Seven, requiring some slight repairs.
And four in good or satisfactory condition."

"Of the 44 carriages with 2314 seats belonging to the company there are:

Two undergoing general repairs.
Twenty two, in good or satisfactory condition.
And twenty, which need more or less important repairs.

"Of the 11 vans there are:

One, undergoing repairs.
Two, requiring to be repaired.
And eight, in good or satisfactory condition."

"Of the 279 wagons owned by the company, I could only inspect 224, the remainder being at the time on other lines. Of these 224 there are:

Twenty-eight, undergoing general repairs.

Six, which should be immediately withdrawn from service, being in very bad condition.

And twenty-six, with more or less important defects."

"From the foregoing it may be inferred that of the locomotives...	73 o/o

" " carriages.....	50 "
" " vans.....	27 "
" " wagons.....	27 "

are being repaired or have more or less important defects."

The foregoing is a literal translation. So that after all our reporter cannot be blamed for jumping at the conclusion that the report was of an unfavorable character. But let us continue our translation:

"The chairman (Mr Pirovano) will therefore see by these figures that the rolling-stock, both for quantity and quality, is inadequate to cope with the traffic of this line, but I believe that as soon as the new rolling-stock ordered some time ago from England, as I was informed by the manager, arrives, the company will be placed in a position to meet all the requirements of traffic. The new rolling-stock comprises:

Five locomotives due within the next six months.

Twenty first-class carriages with 24 seats each; 10 of these are due this month, and the other will be here next summer.

And 100 trucks of 15 tons each.

"This rolling-stock will be quite sufficient for the traffic, if kept in good repair, which up to this appears to me impossible, as the workshops at the Retiro are too small..... To this I called the attention of the manager, who informed me that the company have purchased 250,000 square varas near San Isidro and San Fernando Stations, at a place called Punta Chica, where he purposes beginning shortly to erect the new workshops."

As a rule, the trains run with great punctuality. The carriages leave some room for improvement in the way of cleanliness, but on rainy days it is next to impossible to keep them clean. The signal-service at the stations is perfect, and the company have a good staff of carriage-inspectors at the Retiro and Tigre."

The kilometrage run by the Central Northern and Extensions during January, February, and March was respectively: 1,619,363, 1,594,988, and 1,739,704.

Inspector Fay writes to Dr. Araoz to state that he has succeeded in settling the combinatfon ticket question between the Managers of the Rosario and Central Argentine Railways. For the moment, however, no combination tickets will be sold for the Central Argentine and Andine Lines, since the trains travel at a very reduced speed owing to the damaged condition of the bed.

If the fine weather continue, Mr. Fisher, manager of the Central Argentine, is confident of resuming the time-table.

The manager of the Central Northern has written to Dr. Araoz stating that his trains are now provided with the requisite accommodation for the post-bags.

Dr. Araoz, President of the National Railway Board has informed the Minister of the Interior that he is now engaged with the Board of Public Wroks

De un esplendido area de campo flor en el partido de Ranchos, estancia conocida por de Thorp, el Monte Cuadrado y la Azotea 2295 1 ectareas alambradas, con poblaciones montes este inmediato a las estaciones del F. C. del S.; Jeppener, Altamirano y Alegre, base infirma 140 $ hectarea, vale triple, con 150,000 $ cadulas serie A oro. En nuestra casa Alsina 482.

El Jueves 9 de Mayo,
A las 2 p. m.

Remataremos por cuenta y orden de su propietario y condiciones que se estipularan mas abajo; el renombrado establecimiento de campo conocido por La Azotea y Monte Ourdrado, antes perteneciente a la testamentaria de Thorp ubicado en el partido de Ranchos a una y media legua de la estacion Jeppener e igual distancia mas o menos de las de Altamirano y Alegre; campo flor dividido en cuatro potreros perfectamente alambrado con 6 hilos, postes de Randubay, y las poblaciones Monte Cuadrado de 3 piezas de material techo de teja, monte de arboles frutales y otras; hay ademas una arboleda donde existian antes puestos que hoy son taperas; la poblacion de la Azotea se compone de 3 piezas de material con techo de teja, alambrado de primer orden con tranquera al camino general.

Es campo inmejorable para invernada de hacienda lo mismo que para agricultura y formacion de un centro agricola, por tener tres estaciones del F. C. del Sud á tan corta distancia; es amo dudar una de las areas de campo que mayor porvenir ofrecen, ya sea para explotarse personalmente o para la especulacion, pues dentro de muy poco tiempo valdra mas del triple de su actual precio, haciendo la fortuna de quien lo adquiera.

Para que los interesados puedan visitar esta propiedad, habra todos los Jueves y Domingos un coche en la estacion Jeppener para llevar los interesados.

Con el fin de realizar la venta de su propietario actualmente en Europa, ha fijado para el objecto una base bajisima, pues nosotros reputamos que actualmente vale mucho mas que 140 ps. la hectarea por cupo precio se vendera siempre que haya postores.

Esta alhaja se puede adquirir con muy poca plata, haciendose cargo el comprador de la hipoteca que reconoce 150,000 ps. oro de la serie A provinciales.

Llamamos la attencion de los especuladores sobre esta esplendida propiedad.

Planos y pormenores se obtienen en nuestra casa Alsina 482.

El Domingo, 28 Abril
A LAS 2 1/2 P.M.

Esplendido remate de 80 lotes de TERRENOS, situados en la calle Corrientes y Ministro Ingles pertenecientes á la Fabrica Nacional de Calzado 3a. parte al contado, 3a. parte a 3 meses y 4 seis meses sin interes; ambas las escrituras matrices gratis.

Señores hace proximamente 3 meses que vende 70 lotes de estos mismos terrenos, en donde los compradores se estorbaban para hacer postura y sin embargo del gran interés que tenian, el rematador siempre con el deseo de que los pobres progresen, en el menor descuido daba el golpe sin embargo de haber mas ofertas, asi se debe hacer por que desde que los vendedores ganan cuatro es muy justo que los compradores ganen dos, hace 25 años que remato terrenos, casas y siempre me ha cabido la gloria de haber hecho ganar plata á los que me han comprado, no con mas razon debo proceder de la misma manera porque esto proximo á partir para Genova y quiero dejar un recuerdo de nobleza á mis amigos los gringos de quienes guardo en mi alma un agradecimiento eterno porque á ellos debo la mayor parte de lo poco que poseo antes de partir pienso dar un abrazo á mis amigos Italianos y á la llegada á Genova hare otro tanto con los que encuentre allí, mi viage será corto así es que pronto estaré aquí para poder ser util á los que me han favorecido. Se exijira $100 m/n de seña por cada lote.

The excitement at the first ring to-day was something tremendous, as National Bank Shares began to decline, and sale followed sale with the rapidity of lightning, the rate dropping from 252 to 250.50; at this quotation the first symptom of a rally set in, and as buyers were numerous for end of May at from 252 to six points d'Terence, the quotation reacted slowly to 252, at which it closed between buyers and sellers for end of month and at 257 for end of May. There were many very long-drawn faces at the ring over this unaccountable fizzle, but it is a matter of remark that the heaviest losers are some of the strongest names at the ring, and it is considered from this that matters are not so serious as the heavy differences of the month would lead to suppose. It was also said that the National Bank will give paper against its shares at a moderate interest, and this will no doubt so relieve the situation that it is confidently look forward to the stock being maintained at present rates, and even to a slight improvement. Another thing also very palpable is that a heavy unloading of the shares is going on. Many, it is true, are passing over to next month, but a no small number are getting out of the stock in order to be able to look on as mere spectators at the course of events. With regard to the other stocks, Constructors are notably buoyant, and La Plata Moles fairly so, but Credito Real had to give way, and seems hard set to maintain a 35 o/o premium. Bolsa Bank Scrip steadied at 57 cash and 58 end of month. Cedulas seemed a trifle weaker all round, but rates as yet show no very decided symptoms of decline.

The National Bank to-day gave out the following amounts of gold, by order of Minister Varela;—

With much pleasure we publish the following:—

"To the Editor of the Standard,—

"Dear Sir,—We have seen stated in a paragraph of yesterday's edition of the Nacional referring to the manifesto now about to be presented to Minister Varela that it is considered quite natural we should also join in this demonstration, as, in our capacity of 'proveedores del Gobierno,' we cannot but approve and applaud all its measures.

"In order to avoid any misconstruction which might be given to this assertion, we beg to state that the Nacional is radically wrong in its deductions, as far as we are concerned, for our house has not had business relations of any kind with the Government for the last 20 years.

"It is needless to add that proofs of our assertions are at your disposal.

"We remain, dear Sir,
"Yours very truly,
"J. PINI Y RONCORINI HNOS."

Flores residents complain that as no collectors make their appearance to collect the lighting rates, they are compelled to pay them personally in the revenue office. Now that the Village of the Plain is federalized matters should not require so much official grease to make the wheels run smoothly.

Interested parties will be glad to learn that the 'patente' tax can be paid up to May 15th. It was generally thought that the time for payment expired on the 30th April.

Messrs. Superceille and Co., the well known specie exporters, are now operating on the reverse side, receiving yesterday the round amount of 100,000 dols.

We see by Santa-Fe advices that enormous as are the strides made by the province in the formation of colonies, the Governor intends to push the task even more vigorously still, and is preparing official measures to that effect. It would be no surprise to find that he intends following in the footsteps of Governor Basavilbaso, by adopting the "centros agricolas" project, and he has the Santa Fe and Colonies Bank ready made for the purpose.

Telegrams from Rosario received to-day by the Committee of Merchants state that the whole commercial body up there joins in the movement in support of Minister Varela, and fully 4,000 signatures will be sent down from there. The Committee decided to-day to post up placards through the city, announcing the time and place for the procession to the National Government House on Monday, and calling on all those who sympathise with the movement to close their offices from 2 to 4 on Monday. The Committee meets at 2 o'clock on Monday at the National Theatre, and proceeds thence to the Plaza Victoria. The demonstration promises to be the greatest ever witnessed.

In another column will be found the advertisement of the Constructora de Belgrano, a concern just started with one million dollars capital in four series of shares of one hundred dollars each share. The board, as will be seen, contains leading names, and Mr. Farrant as manager will no doubt render a good account of a business for which he is admirably adapted. The wonder is that Belgrano has not had such a concern started long ago, as its standing would certainly have warranted. If it only achieve similar results to the Flores Constructora, the new concern will prove a source of wealth to the town, and in particular to the shareholders.

The fall in National Bank Shares this morning perfectly stunned the market, and owing to the power of the bear ring and the difficulty of getting money on the stock, it was feared that prices would drop another ten points in the evening, but the market was saved from so great a fall by an advance being made on ten thousand shares taken at a valuation of 230. Prices at the second ring, therefore, at once reacted.

Telegrams from Rio to-day brought the very important news that the Brazilian Government has fixed the legal price of sovereigns at 8.890, which has caused a fall in exchange in that market to 27½, and this news more or less affects this market, as it will tend to diminish the demand for sovereigns here.

One hundred thousand Nats. in gold came up this morning, and were deposited in the Banco de Italia. Exchange brokers say that the gold is all in Argentinos, which have come to be changed for sovereigns.

The auction of the Reus Barrio houses in Montevideo, which attracts notice in this market, is postponed to the 5th May.

Paper money rates so tight in the market that we heard of loans on stocks made in the Bolsa at 18 to 20 per cent per annum. The Government is buying gold to the market has got control of all the floating paper money in the market.

The large loan made to-day on 10,000 National Bank Shares was done at 8 per cent.

Exchange rules very firm and looks upwards; some parties expect to see it soon at 48d. Francs were done to-day at 5.01.

Business at the second hour was altogether of a more favourable tenor than might have been expected from the stand-from-under state of the market at the close of the first hour. National Bank Shares opened at 253 end with a rising tendency; 255 was soon reached, but sellers proved very numerous at this rate, and 254.50 was the rate at the close. For end of month there were plenty of buyers offering up to 258.50, and even 159 was done, whilst several lots of 100 shares each changed hands for to-morrow at 254. Banco Frances Shares were a point weaker than in the morning, but Bolsa Bank were steady, and Credito Real rebounded to 136.50 for end of month and 140 end of May. Constructors were firm, but comparatively neglected. La Plata Moles were quoted at 143 for end of month, but Catalinas seemed a trifle weak at 149 for cash and end of month. Some large lots of Obligations changed hands at current rates. Cedulas, as in the morning, looked weak, and the movement of the stock was unimportant.

The impression in the market to-day was that the premium is in for a stiff tumble, although the resistance at present is singularly tenacious. However, surely, if slowly, it is sinking, and the closing rates in the open market to-day were quoted at 155.20 for cash, 155.50 for end of month, and 156 end of May.

The following is a summary of operations effected this evening at the second ring:—
